

Approved For Release 2000/05/24 : CIA-RDP

JUL 18 1966

6

CPYRGHT

Admiral William Raborn, who recently stepped down as CIA director, said the agency is really "a church going member" of the governmental family and not a clandestine network of spies. He said undercover operations amounted to only a small part of CIA's work and denied it had an "invisible army" which spends time stirring up insurrections in other countries.